“ Clint was my best man 28 years ago and I was in his wedding not long before mine. We worked together in the Tyson shine division. I left Arkansas shortly after our weddings and failed to keep up as much as I would have liked. We did correspond a couple of years ago and I regret not reaching out more as Clint has been one of the best and most honest men I have known in my life. I know that he is at peace now and I wish that his family finds the peace they need without him in the future but certainly not without his memory. I'm sure he will be sorely missed.

“ The first time I remember seeing Clint was in the mid 70's when I was announcing horse shows for the NWRCA, and the Oak Grove playdays. He was always riding a little red roan mare named Runnin' Rube, and no one could outrun them in the classification they were competing in. One of the ironic things I always remember about Clint was that he shared the same birthday as my dad, J O Metcalf. Years later I had the opportunity to coach ma softball team he was playing on in the Pork Group for Tyson Foods. I assigned Clint the task of playing right field. I was asked why play him in right field, and I responded by telling the people he was the one one we had on the team that had the athletic ability to run fast enough to get under the fly balls and the strength to throw the ball that far with any accuracy, plus he knew the game so well you didn't have to tell him what to do. the bad news was in the middle of the first game he was honing in on a fly ball running full blast, hit the fence and broke his leg. The honest truth was, whatever he was competing in he always gave it everything he had to try to accomplish the task. And that is the heart of a champion. Clint was a true champion. As you can tell, I will always have fond memories of him, and will miss him a great deal for he was a dear friend for life.
