“ This sweet man taught me how to survive life with all it humps, bumps and joys. He expected a lot from me and my brother, and when I was younger I did not appreciate the what he was trying to teach me, but as the years went on I came to understand the saying that if you raise your children to be self sufficient you have done it right. My bother and I have always been that kind of person. I miss my Daddy so much and will always feel broken hearted that I was not there when he went to be the Lord and the love of his life my Mom who went ahead of him in April 2013. I loved this man so so very much and will always miss him and wish that I could have been there to kiss him bye and let him know just how wonderful I thought he was. I know someday I will see him again.

Love you so much Daddy.
