“ I?m so sorry for your recent loss. I can only imagine how painful it must be especially to lose someone so young and precious. This is not meant to push our beliefs but, many people find comfort in what the bible has to say about death. Some people believe that god just needed another little angel up in heaven, but why would a god who? s main quality is love(1 John 4:8) do such a thing? God actually says and Isaiah 25:8-that ?He will actually swallow up death forever and the sovereign lord Jehovah will certainly wipe the tears from all faces.? Also in Revelation 21:4 it says ?He will wipe out every tear from their eyes and death will be no more neither will morning nor outcry nor pain be anymore the former things have passed away.? Aren?t these such comforting scriptures to know and such an amazing hope for us? If we obey gods commands and walk in Christ Jesus foot steps, then through Jesus perfect sacrifice our precious loved ones and ourselves can be made alive again. (1 Cor.15:20-22) I hope these words have brought you some comfort in your tragic loss.
Sincerely

“ I dont think I ever even spoke to you online, but the recents events in your family have saddened me to my very core. I can not imagine how much you and your family circle are hurting now, and I will not pretend to understand how you are feeling, but please accept my deepest, most heartfelt sympathies at this time. I wish there were more that we could do for you, and I wish you all the best and a bundle of love for the future. You're little angel will watch over and protect you forever. You are truly in my prayers.

With all my love

“ Words cannot ever adequately express the deep emotion I feel for your family right now. My thoughts and prayers have gone out to you and yours for the past few days. Even though we didn't "know" each other IRL, I followed your situation on the message board and rejoiced when you rejoiced, cried when you cried. May God wrap his loving arms around you during this time of intense grief and show you the peace that passes all understanding.

“ To all of the Lein family,
I followed Emma's journey closely, and was happy when she did well and was scared when things were not good. It's amazing how this beautiful little person has touched so many whom she has never even met, and it's obvious from her gorgeous smile that she was loved tremendously in her short life. Cherish the few months you had, and remember that she loved you as much as you loved her. May you all find peace in this difficult time, and know that so many are thinking of you all.

“ Our hearts go out to your family in this time of grief. We worried and prayed for you as we followed Emma's story as our daughter also had breathing difficulties in her early months.

May God grant you peace as you hold Emma in your hearts and begin to heal. May you celebrate Emma in your lives.

God bless you all.

“ To all the Lein and Miller family members:

Obviously there are no words to express how deeply we mourn with you, even though we did not have the joy of getting to know Emma. For Emma, we rejoice that she is finally free from pain and in the arms of our Lord, but it is our urgent prayer that the pain you are currently experiencing will be soon softened with the memories of the joy of sharing her life.

“ I am so sad to hear of your family's loss. Emma was truly a treasure. Though her life was short, she touched and was touched by many souls. God's love and purpose could not have been more sweetly distilled.

Don't you love the story in Matthew where Jesus said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me"? Now when I see that picture in my mind, it is little Emma He is cradling, smiling, in His arms!

“ Dear John & Miriam,

Though we barely know you and never had the pleasure of "meeting" little Emma, we wanted to let you know that your family has been in our prayers for many months. There are many times that we don't understand why God allows these things to happen, but we are so thankful that God is in control and knows better than anyone the fiber of our very being. While this is a time of grief and sorrow for you and your families, it is also a time of great rejoicing for little Emma Anne. She now has a perfect body and is in the loving arms of our Savior. We will always remember her and can't wait to meet her one day in heaven. Know that we love you and continue to pray that God will heal your hurting hearts and provide comfort and peace for your souls.
