“ In first grade, many, many years ago, there was a little boy, it was his first day of school ever. He was not happy that his mom had dumped him off at this crazy place with all these strange kids so he decided to make a break for it. He slid off his seat and headed for the door. He would have made it too if it weren't for this pesky little girl who yelled, "There he goes, Ms. McGehee. Get Him! He's heading for the door." That little boy was Nelson Reed. That little girl was Renee Case. Fast forward several years and there's a sweet little red-head, blue-eyed girl working in a store, unsure of many things. But, a sassy, feisty, beautiful older lady took this little girl under her wing (after giving her a bit of a hard time at first.LOL) That red-head was Nelson Reed's daughter and that sassy lady was the same Renee that hollered at the teacher. We can never express how much we appreciated and loved you. We have many fond & crazy memories that we will never let go. Our daughter fell in love with you and a part of you wormed your way into her, because there are some days when she will do something or say something and Nelson says, "Now, stop that Renee." Keith and family, we continue to hold you up in our prayers. It's a hard thing to lose anyone, but Renee leaves a huge hole. We understand. If we can do anything, please let us know. Nelson Reed Family.

“ God has a plan for each of us and when he calls we must answer. The Cases and Roberts were neighbors for many years and we have known Renee since the day she was born. We loved her like family. She will be remembered as the loving, bubbly, caring young woman who left us way too early. "Death leaves a heartache no one can heal, but leaves a memory no one can steal". Parker and Faye Roberts

“ I had the pleasure of meeting Renee at the store, we were instant friends, she was so full of life, always had everyone laughing, singing, and every once in awhile busting a move!!! She had the biggest heart. She drank more coffee than anyone I've ever seen! She was always on the go, I don't think she knew how to sit still, probably due to the caffeine! She was loved and will be missed very much! Rest in peace sweet lady. We love u.
