“ Miss Maggie was a good friend, a mighty Faith warrior, all around beautiful lady. When my daughter, Chandlor & I visited her with cookies at Christmas, she kept talking about going home...well now she is Home! I can only imagine the complete Joy she felt stepping into the Presence of our Savior. And I'm sure He and His Angels are rejoicing with her. I imagine her dancing with them, free at last of life's baggage. We will see you soon Miss Maggie!

“ My heart is so sad to loose such a beautiful, colorful soul. Ms. Maggie was an amazing lady who touched so many lives. She had a passion to help others, driving her to volunteer in many ways. I will always smile thinking of the way she laughed and the twinkle in her eyes. Her flair of fashion and design always gave us extra things to talk about. Ms. Maggie was an avid reader. She read literally everything she could get her hands on to read. Our times together was so special and so sweet. Sitting with coffee and pastry or a glass of sweet tea with a cucumber sandwich, we would find ourselves reminiscing of days gone by. Comparing life stories sometimes would bring a few tears but we could never spend time together without giggles and lots of laughter!!

I loved that she had a very special connection to our Lil' Man. I loved that she loved him, prayed for him and spoke many prophetic blessings over him.

However, most of our precious times visiting showcased the passion we shared - the love of our beautiful Savior and Lord, Jesus! She was so inquisitive about the things of Jesus always wanting to know more! She loved Jesus! She really, really LOVED Jesus! No matter what else I can say...nothing else really mattered. Her heart beat with His. She lit up every time she said His name!! She was a warrior on her knees and always praying for the needs of others. She was an encourager, building up the faith of others. She had hope and a great future knowing her life was not her own, but His and she so eloquently helped others to find that same faith. I can only imagine the wealth of Life Rewards she has now gained.

Ms. Maggie you are loved and dearly remembered!! <3 Please do a little jitterbug for me. :)

“ Fond of memories of "Maggie" as a jewelry maker and one who never backed down from talking about her faith in God. Prayers for your family at this time.

“ Maggie was a wonderful woman of God whom Mary and I loved very much. She always was full of life and humor. She loved her Jesus very much and was looking forward to going home to be with Him. She was a committed person to Believers Fellowship and supported Mary and I very much when we were pastors there. She will be very much missed.
