“ I'm sitting here in my room, looking at your picture.
Wondering why you couldn't be a part of my future.
Uncontrollable tears stream down my face,
while my heart beat starts to race.
Asking God why he took you from my life,
it was more painful than stabbing me in the heart with a knife.
I still needed you here
you were the one to make everything so clear.
you are apart of me and I am apart of you when you died a part of me died too.
I never knew how hard it was to loose someone you love
until the day you went to heaven above.
Even though I can't see,
I know your up there watching over me.
I miss you more and more everyday
and all I can do is pray.
In my heart you shall forever remain.

two days before Roy died, we had talked about getting married and starting a life together. i cried for three days straight after i heard he had died, he will be greatly missed and always loved and adored

“ I sit here just outside of Kansas City, a place that Roy loved to talk with me about, and I am heartbroken. I had known Roy for almost 30 years. I lost touch with him for a very long time and reconnected with him just this past spring. I found him just around the time of Louise's death and did the best I could to comfort him. In our brief time of visiting over the phone and through text, the memories of our time together in Gentry and KC came back to us and we spent hours remembering. One phone call started at around 8pm and ended at about 1:30 a.m.

We had many plans to see each other again and try to catch up on a lot of lost time. I can say that my visits to Gentry in the future will never be the same. I was in constant touch with im through his latest hospital visits and procedures and told him many times that I loved him. The sentiment always came back. I am heartbroken in many ways, but I know he painfully mourned the loss of Louise and I take comfort that he is with her now.

I thank him for his friendship and the tons of memories. I will always keep him with me.
