“ Dear Debbie and family,
I never met Tiffany, but heard about her battle from a friend. I attended the spaghetti dinner and was honored to help by bidding my sweet tooth and heart out. I send you my deepest sympathy and condolences. I lost my wonderful husband a year ago to cancer, but no one can fully understand your loss but you. I will keep you in my prayers.

“ Dear family,

My husband and I met Taylor at the hospice center when my husband's grandfather was there and Tiffany was there too. Our deepest sympathy goes out to you and your family at this time. We are so very sorry for the loss of your sister, daughter and friend. Please let us know if you ever need anything at all. We will keep you in our prayers!

“ To the family of Tiffany Smithhart,
I wanted to write to express my sincere condolences. Tiffany was so young and beautiful. Your hearts must be breaking. In dealing with my personal loss of family and friends in death I have found one thing to be truly comforting. That is the Bible's promise of a resurrection. I would like to share that with you in hopes that it will bring you comfort as well. Jesus said at John 5:28,29, "The hour is coming in which all those in their memorial tombs will hear his voice and come out." Jesus used the expression "memorial tombs" because God's memory is involved. He can remember every detail of each of our dead loved ones. And it is not just that he can remember. He wants to do so. Regarding the wonderful prospect of the resurrection Job said of God, "If an able-bodied man dies can he live again?...You (God) will call and I myself shall answer you. For the work of your hands you will have a yearning." (Job 14:14,15) If God 'yearns' to see our loved ones alive again we can be sure that he will resurrect them. Although there is no way to completely erase the pain and grief, thinking on scriptures like these can help us cope. If you would like to receive more comforting scriptures, I would be happy to send you more. My thoughts and prayers are with you and your family.
Sincerely,
Amy Smith

“ My heart sunk when I read of Tiffany's passing. She carried smiles and happiness around with her everywhere she went.

My prayers are with you Debbie, Nichole, Josh, and Taylor. Don't hesitate to call me if you need anything.

Tiffany will be truly missed!
