

Vickie Kay Cook

February 19, 1952 - September 27, 2025

Vickie Kay Cook, 73, of Siloam Springs, Arkansas, passed away at her home on Saturday, September 27, 2025. Vickie was born on February 19, 1952, in Aptos, California, to Orville Thomas Johnston and Oleta Maxine (Williams) Johnston. She later made her home in Arkansas, where she shared nearly 40 years of marriage with her late husband, Scotty Cook. A hardworking woman, Vickie was self-employed for much of her life, cleaning homes. She had a passion for singing and camping and was known for her creative spirit as an artist. Vickie cherished time spent with her family along with every family gathering. At Heritage Heights, she was affectionately known as “Mama Bear.” A true social butterfly, Vickie never met a stranger and brought light and laughter wherever she went. Vickie will be missed and remembered by all who knew and loved her. She was preceded in death by her husband, Scotty Cook; her mother, Oleta Maxine Williams Johnston; her father, Orville Thomas Johnston; her granddaughter, Kaylynn Marie Cook; her brother, Dennis Ray Johnston.

She is survived by two daughters, Alicia Lynn Stanley (Dustin) of Fayetteville, Arkansas, and Wendy Rene Cox (Robert) of Westmoreland, Tennessee; two granddaughters, Sandra Paige Simonian of Gainesville, Florida, and Samantha Rene Williamson (Derek) of Westville, Oklahoma; one grandson, Dustin Jay Watts, of Westville, Oklahoma; three brothers, Kelly Eugene Johnston (Verna) of Clovis, California, Kenty Johnston (Betty) of Rogers, Arkansas, and Teddy Ray Johnston (Sherry) of Fresno, California; numerous loving nieces and nephews.

Cremation arrangements are under the direction of Wasson Funeral home. A celebration of life will be scheduled by the family at a later date.

“ Vickie was a sweet lady and a very good friend. She had a kind heart and would do anything to help you if she liked you. I cherish all the time I had with her in my life. She was one to tell you her opinion so don't ask her if you don't want to know it. She helped me out during the tough times in my life and always gave me hope. Vickie loved enjoying life and always made me smile and laugh at some of the crazy things in our life. My condolences go out to Alicia and Wendy! She loved you both very much. RIP Vickie!
